Central State Hospital (CSH) was once the state's largest facility for treatment of mental illness and development disabilities. The hospital was founded in the 1800's as the Georgia State Lunatic, Idiot, and Epileptic Asylum, and was known as the Georgia State Sanitarium and Milledgeville State Hospital. In the 1960s the facility was acknowledged as the biggest in the world, encompassing approximately 8,000 acres. Currently the CSH complex encompasses closer to 1,750 acres.

Parham Kitchen was originally built in 1962 and 1990. The property served as the kitchen to Central State until 2014 when it was shut down. It remained vacant until the renovations in 2019 and 2020. The facility has provided precooked/prepackaged meals for schools, retailers, and correction facilities, including private label services.

The subject was originally designed and constructed for use as the commercial kitchen serving the Central State Hospital campus. The interior layout reflects the intended use. As shown on the floor plans (page 6), the interior is subdivided into a large central food processing area which houses substantial amounts of processing equipment and several vent hoods; several areas of coolers, freezers, and dry storage; numerous smaller storage and preparation rooms; several offices; an employee cafeteria and public café/meeting area in the front of building. The subject now functions as a food processing facility/commercial kitchen.
