OPTUM HEALTH

Optum Health, the care delivery arm of Optum and a key business segment of UnitedHealth Group (NYSE: UNH), represents one of the most sought-after tenants in the U.S. healthcare real estate market. As a tenant, Optum offers investors exceptional credit quality, long-term operational stability, and a strong alignment with the macro trends driving healthcare demand and real estate durability.

Backed by a Fortune 5 Healthcare Powerhouse:

Optum Health operates under the broader UnitedHealth Group umbrella, a Fortune 5 company with over $370 billion in annual revenue (FY2024), a market capitalization exceeding $450 billion, and a long-standing track record of consistent profitability and dividend growth. UnitedHealth Group's financial strength—rated AA- by S&P and A+ by Moody's—translates into high creditworthiness and security for landlords.

This corporate backing provides a powerful financial safety net for lease obligations and continued investment in property-level operations, expansion, and patient services. For real estate investors, Optum Health's presence as a tenant represents low credit risk and institutional-grade tenancy.

Optum Health delivers care through one of the largest networks of medical professionals in the country, encompassing 90,000+ affiliated or employed physicians, serving over 100 million individuals annually. Their integrated care model spans primary care, specialty services, behavioral health, and ambulatory surgery centers—frequently housed in outpatient and medical office facilities, like the subject property.

Optum's strategic shift toward value-based care and outpatient delivery creates long-term demand for well-located, high-quality medical facilities. They are aggressively growing their real estate footprint through acquisition and development of clinical hubs that support high-volume, high-margin procedures in lower-cost outpatient settings.
